COMPENSATION BILL

McKeithen Tells Industrial Group About Objections

By SAM HANNA
Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — Gov. John J. McKeithen headed Friday for a major showdown between labor and business as amendments were being considered to meet his objections on an industry-backed workmen compensation bill.

McKeithen met with an industrial group to discuss his opposition to phases of a bill by Sen. Jackson B. Davis of Shreveport to change the workmen's compensation laws.

"We're considering amendments to the bill," explained Rep. Algia Brown of Shreveport. "We hope to meet the governor's objections."

OBJECTS TO CLAUSE

McKeithen, who expressed doubts about the bill at an earlier press conference, objects to a clause in the bill that spells out permanent disability.

He discussed this with the group, including Attorney William Brown of Monroe, as the House met for almost seven hours, then adjourned until 11 a.m. Monday. The Senate returns at 5 p.m. Monday.

Davis' bill is set for the special order of the day Monday when the legislature comes back with two weeks left in the current session.

With organized labor against the bill, the measure is expected to undergo rough sledding in the House, especially since the house voted narrowly, 52-50, to send the bill to a judiciary committee for a hearing rather than to the Labor and Industry Committee.

McKeithen's floor leaders supported the motion sending the bill to the judiciary committee, but two of them, Rep. Lantz Womack of Womboro and Rep. Robert Munson of Cheneyville, expressed concern over the bill Friday.

"I can't say how I'm going to vote, but I understand there'll be some amendments to the bill," Munson said. "I'll wait and see what the amendments say."

But Womack explained, "I'll more than likely vote for the bill, but it would be more acceptable if it was amended to move it closer to the middle of the road."

He added, "I have insisted that industry come up with some amendments that would place the bill in a middle-of-the-road position."

Womack said unless the bill was amended he doubted that it would become law.

McKeithen said the bill was written "too heavily in industry's favor and against labor."

McKeithen indicated he would veto the bill at his press conference as it is presently written.

The bill, which has passed the Senate, makes four basic changes in the workmen's compensation law:

- Increases injury benefits from $35 to $40 per week.
- Puts compensation benefits

Gov. McKeithen Signs Industry Program Bills

World Legislative Bureau

BATON ROUGE — Gov. John J. McKeithen signed three major bills Friday in his industrial inducement program.

They included a measure giving industry tax credit on natural gas used in Louisiana and a foreign trade subzone to make way for a $50-million new industry in St. Charles Parish.

One legislative act signed authorizes tax credits to manufacturers based on the natural gas they use in manufacturing.

The tax credits are coupled with an extension of the state's 2.3 per cent severance tax on each 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas produced.

Louisiana teachers are paid from the gas severance tax. McKeithen proposed the tax credit plan as an inducement to industry. He also signed a companion measure — an amendment to the state constitution — which would allow the tax credits system to be put into effect.

McKeithen also signed a legislative act by Rep. Joel T. Chaisson, St. Charles Parish, to set up a foreign trade subzone in St. Charles Parish.

The governor said earlier Union Carbide Corp. had agreed to build a $50-million plant in St. Charles if legislation was provided. The act will make it easier for the firm to handle raw materials to be shipped in.

Senators Up Debt Ceilings

Action Keeps Limit Above Actual Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave President Johnson the go-ahead Friday to boost the temporary national debt limit by $9 billion to the highest ceiling in history — $324 billion. It'll be the biggest jump since World War II.

Senate passage of the bill 48 to 21 — following last week's House approval 203 to 182 — didn't come a bit too soon to keep the limit from falling below the actual debt of about $312 billion, and taking away the treasury's elbow room.

PRESENT CEILING

Without Johnson's signature, the present temporary ceiling of $315 billion would drop to $309 billion next Tuesday and the so-called permanent limit of $285 billion on Wednesday. The new limit will be effective through June 30, 1965.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon told the Senate Finance Committee on Tuesday that the debt would go as high as $321 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1. He said the $324-billion limit is essential to provide a 3-billion leeway for contingencies.

The Senate voted after two hours of debate.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he was voting against the $324 billion figure because he feels the administration is on a "deficit-debt binge," with no end in sight.

Defending the boost, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., second ranking Democrat on Byrd's committee, said that just after World War II the national debt was 127 per cent of the gross national product, but now is only 50 per cent of that measure of the output of the nation's goods and services.

Italian Head Resigns Post; Crisis Stirs

The government—Italy's first in 17 years to include Roman Catholic Christian Democrats and Marxist Socialists—broke up over a relatively minor budget provision that climaxed months of growing differences.

CABINET QUILTS

The Cabinet decided in a one-hour meeting to quit. Moro went directly from the meeting and submitted his resignation to President Antonio Segni.

Segni, following custom, reserved his decision on whether to accept the resignation. This is the usual procedure, with the premier staying on to handle current affairs pending outcome of presidential consultations with Italian political leaders.

The consultations, aimed at finding someone to accept the task of forming a new government, were expected to start Saturday.

There was wide speculation that Segni would ask Moro himself to take another crack at it.

A brief communique at the end of the Cabinet meeting said: "The Cabinet has agreed with Premier Moro to present its resignation to the chief of state for the purpose of achieving a clarification of the political situation."

Only a few hours earlier the Communist party had demanded that Moro take that step.

A relative minor issue — a budget provision giving less than $240,000 in financial aid to nonstate and mostly Roman Catholic intermediate schools — pushed the government to crisis.

The measure was defeated by four votes. Later all government parties joined in approving the budget as a whole. But the damage was done.

EIGHT AT LARGE

25 Baboons Stage Escape In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Female baboons have walked off the job at the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education.

Twenty-five baboons staged a mass escape Thursday. Eight remain at large.

The females were being kept in a breeding cage. A spokesman for the foundation blamed a faulty cage latch for the walkout.

Sixteen of the 20-pound baboons were quickly captured on the 160-acre grounds. One lonely female came back of her own accord.

Dick Smith, spokesman for the foundation, said the baboons are not considered dangerous even though they are "fresh over from Africa."

He said the baboons "are more scared than anything" and that they will not bother humans.

Smith said the baboons were to be used for medical research.

"We'll get the rest tonight," Smith said. "They'll come back when they get hungry. They never had it so good."

The Southwest Research foundation regularly has 200 baboons in a baboonery where they are bred for research.

One of their attractions for scientists is that they develop hardening of the arteries exactly like humans and in many other respects, their bodies are more like humans than any other animal.

Gov. Paul Johnson Asks Farmers To Search Land Hunt To Continue For Missing Trio

Dulles Asks Mississippi FBI Action

Explains To LBJ Need To Prevent Terror Activity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allen W. Dulles told President Johnson that the FBI should play an expanded role in working with state local authorities to "control and prosecute terroristic activity" in Mississippi.

The former director of the Central Intelligence Agency told newsmen this Friday after he completed reporting on his special mission to Mississippi. The state has been thrust again into the racial limelight by the disappearance of three young civil rights workers.

STATE'S BURDEN

Dulles stressed his belief that "the main burden in suppressing these terroristic activities" rests on state and local authorities.

Dulles told reporters that during their two-hour session he and the President talked by phone with Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. of Mississippi and the governor "seemed to take them — the recommendations — favorably." But Dulles added he would let the governor express his own views. Dulles said he expects President Johnson to act soon on his recommendations.

In Jackson, Gov. Johnson later told newsmen the state will protect civil rights workers as well as it can but acknowledged there will be some danger for them.

In addition to recommending stepped-up FBI activity, Dulles said he recommended various other state and local "and, as appropriate, federal" actions to protect Negroes and civil rights workers.

Dulles noted that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has increased his agency's strength in Mississippi substantially since the three young workers vanished in the eastern part of the state last Sunday.

The former CIA chief did not specify any particular "terroristic activities" but said joint action is needed to control "clandestine groups in the state." Asked to identify some of these, he mentioned the Ku Klux Klan and Americans for Preservation of the White Race.

Dulles said it is suspected, although not definitely known, "that there was terroristic activity" against two white New Yorkers, Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 21, and James Chaney, a 22-year-old Negro from Meridian, Miss.

Hunt Says Area Electric Rates To Be Reduced

Public Service Commissioner John S. Hunt of Monroe Friday disclosed that discussions were under way concerning a proposed reduction of approximately $1,500,000 yearly in electric service rates of the Louisiana Power and Light Company of West Monroe.

Hunt said the rate reduction would affect some 90,000 customers in North Louisiana, adding "there will definitely be a rate decrease."

Hunt met Friday with W. O. Turner, chairman of the board of LPL, and J. W. Gaines, division manager of the northern district concerning the reduction.

The tax reduction will come as a result of a request by the Public Service Commission to all utilities regulated by it for a "determination as to what effect federal tax savings under the Revenue Act of 1964 would have on rates," Hunt said. "The proposed rate decrease was the result."

Hunt said the reduction should become effective on all bills mailed out on and after August 1 this year. He pointed out that the reductions would apply primarily to residential, commercial, industrial and other miscellaneous users. Of the total reduction, $607,000 is expected to come from residential, while commercial users will get a total of $588,000.

ALLEN DULLES tells reporters Friday in a White House news conference that he has recommended to President Johnson stepped-up FBI activity to "control and prosecute terroristic activities" in Mississippi. ## VERY MODERN WEAPONS

Cuba To Receive Red AA Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians are in process of turning over operation of 24 anti-aircraft missile systems in Cuba to the Cuban armed forces according to the best information available to officials here.

The surface-to-air missiles are considered by U.S. authorities to be very modern weapons capable of shooting down high flying U.S. jet reconnaissance planes.

TRIGGER HAPPY

It is understood in official quarters here, however, that the Soviet government has warned Prime Minister Fidel Castro against any trigger-happy firing at the American aircraft which regularly fly reconnaissance missions in the Cuban skies, as they have since the October 1962 missile crisis.

Soviet policy at this point does not call for a revival of brinkmanship in the Caribbean, U.S. officials note.

Furthermore, indications are that the central command set up for the missile sites still is in control of Soviet officers. The turnover of operations to Cubans is reported to have been occurring at the bases scattered around the island, as the Russians move toward completion of the withdrawal of their troops from Cuba.

Withdrawal of Soviet troops from Cuba is continuing at a steady rate, according to authoritative U.S. information. About 600 to 800 officers and men are reported to have gone from Cuba in the last month.

Some Washington officials estimate that this still leaves from 1,000 to 1,200 more Soviet military personnel in Cuba than are to be stationed there permanently as a training mission.

The training mission, according to information obtained by

Days Will Be Dry, Pleasant

The generally pleasant weather over Northeast Louisiana is forecast to continue today and Sunday with no scorching temperatures expected.

Partly cloudy skies will yield only widely scattered showers mostly in the afternoon and early evening. No rainfall was reported in the area Friday.

Today's high temperature will be 90-94 degrees with night readings at 66-70. The mercury stopped at 94 Friday after it rose from a low of 66 in the early morning hours.

Winds will be gentle and variable, 5-15 miles per hour.

Horse Washing Costs Almost Out Of Sight

McALLEN, Tex. (AP) — Texas Ranger Jerome H. Preiss, who, like all Rangers by tradition, is an outdoors man, decided his horse, Noche, was sweaty and dirty.

So he rode Noche into an automobile service station and had him washed.

He paid for the $2 wash job with his state gasoline credit card.

Shortly thereafter, he met a fellow outdoors writer association conventioneer, Gov. John B. Connally, and told him of the wash job.

"I used to get a horse washed for a dollar and a half," Preiss complained.

"Well, Jerome, everything's going up nowadays," was the governor's only comment.

POISONOUS SNAKES FREED

Nitro Truck Blast Kills 6, Injures 10

MARSHALLS CREEK, Pa. (AP) — A 15-ton truckload of dynamite and explosive chemicals blew up in a pre-dawn fire Friday, killing six persons and demolishing a reptile farm that had exhibited 150 snakes, some poisonous, to tourists in this Pocono Mountain resort. Ten persons were injured.

See Picture, Page 2A

Damage was unofficially estimated at over half a million dollars, including $286,000 to an elementary school about 300 yards from the scene.

By nightfall over 100 snakes, including a deadly cobra, a six-inch-thick boa constrictor and many rattlers, had been accounted for—some torn to bits in the violent blast, others shot by police and soldiers.

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Paul Johnson Friday night appealed to farmers in this red clay hill country "to take a few hours of your own time" and look for clues in the strange disappearance of three civil rights workers.

Appearing on a local radio station following his surprise arrival here, the governor urged Neshoba County residents "to search your own premises."

State and federal agents, joined Thursday by 100 sailors, have spent five days looking for the trio.

"We do not know whether these people are alive or dead," Johnson said in his 10-minute radio talk. He asked white, Negro and Indian citizens here to cooperate in the search "as you have the last three days."

LAW ABIDING

"The people of Neshoba are good law-abiding citizens and the people of the United States should know that," he said.

He assured residents here that "the sailors have come to aid us. We're glad to have them. They're fellow Americans."

On his arrival, the governor expressed confidence the trio—missing since Sunday night—would be found. But he added, "I don't know how long it will take—it might not be in my lifetime."

Johnson arrived in this eastern Mississippi county seat shortly after the state highway patrol said the station wagon used by the missing youths was gutted by fire at least 12 hours after their disappearance.

Asked if he thought the missing trio was still in Mississippi, he said:

"That, of course, is a possibility. They could be in Cuba. That, too, is a possibility."

Johnson said there had been complete cooperation among local, state and federal officers in the search.

The governor, who talked with the White House earlier in the day, said he was prepared to remain here throughout the night "if it is necessary" to help in the search.

The charred vehicle used by the trio was found in a swampy thicket northeast of here Tuesday.

Gwin Cole, the patrol's chief inspector at the search scene, said the station wagon was driven to the point where it was found and burned between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday. This was more than 12 hours after the three youths were last seen at 10:30 p.m. Sunday by a Neshoba County deputy sheriff who escorted them out of town after the trio had been jailed and fined for speeding.

Four Vietnamese pilots reported killing 10 guerrillas in a single strafing run.

Vietnamese officers made the estimate of at least 200 Viet Cong dead, and U.S. military sources said it was "not excessive." An accurate casualty toll was impossible because the Communists carried their casualties with them when they fled in darkness and rain Thursday night.

Government losses were reported as 3 dead and 24 wounded. Eleven Viet Cong prisoners were captured.

MISSING WORKER REPORTED SEEN IN LOUISIANA

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana state police launched a search Friday for a man resembling one of three civil rights workers reported missing in Mississippi.

A man who looked like Andy Goodman, 20, New York City was reported seen boarding a bus here Tuesday with a woman, Col. Ben Ragusa of state police headquarters here said. The couple reportedly left the Greyhound bus at Hammond, Ragusa said.

Several people who saw them he said, thought they were workers for the Congress of Racial Equality.

Students, Adults Finish Neville Home Projects

A number of high school students and adult women completed a course in home economics at Neville High School this week. The course was principally one of clothes construction which was directed by Mrs. Dorothy T. Johnson and Mrs. Gloria Durr, home economics instructors at Neville.

The course was almost like going to school an extra month and provided activities which couldn't be fitted into the regular nine months schedule. The program is primarily designed to enhance and build up the complete program in home economics. It also gives the teacher time to work much closer with her students, parents and other adults.

During this additional month the teacher is able to visit more student homes which will help her to understand her students if a problem arises at school.

The course in clothing constructions was set up to deal with sports clothes and other types of clothing which were not included in the school year's plan of clothing. The students requested this type of course. The course, taught by Mrs. Johnson, was designed to fit their needs. During the regular year, Mrs. Johnson said, the students make clothes which can and are worn to school.

All students in this course completed at least one article and many finished three.

The adult clothing classes were held during the morning and the women made tailored garments, such as coats and suits. Classes were also held for the women in which they watched in modern pressing equipment methods. Because of the large number of women participating, the classes had to be divided into two groups.

The Neville chapter of the Future Homemakers of America, under the supervision of Mrs. Durr, set up their entire program for next year. They tentatively scheduled projects and prospective speakers for their monthly meetings.

Additional projects which the classes participated in were reupholstering chairs for the kitchen of the home economics department, refinishing a serving table and teacher's desk and making canisters.

Before the course opened on June 1, Mrs. Johnson visited all the new students who will be enrolled in home economics at Neville in the fall. Mrs. Durr sponsored the month-long workshop to improve the appearance and efficiency of the home laboratory at the high school.

Bankrupt Butler To Repay Debts

LONDON (AP)—The bankrupt butler of Britain's chancellor of the exchequer said Friday he plans to pay off his $12,600 in debts at $2.80 a week. "I'll have to cut down my expenses," explained Ian Henderson, one of the nation's most unusual gentleman's gentlemen. "One way I'll do it is to drink less beer."

Class is 61. By paying his debts $2.80 a week, he would complete payments in about 86 1/2 years. A retired officer in the navy, Class also is a former company director and onetime president of Hull Fish Merchants Protection Association.

In bankruptcy court, he told examiner A. A. Walter his bankruptcy occurred because he neglected his duties as company director for those of president of the association.

"I had served myself as well as I served others," he said, "I would not be here today."

Friends said Class lost interest in his business when his wife died unexpectedly last year. Asked about this, he replied: "I was desperately unhappy and desperately lonely."

Talking to reporters, he said at one of the low points of his life he saw an advertisement for a butler at No. 11 Downing St. Advertising was Reginald Maudling, chancellor of the exchequer. As the head of the British treasury, Maudling lives next door to Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

"I wanted to get away completely from my troubles," said Class, "and a job as a butler seemed the answer."

He said he told Mr. and Mrs.

Winds Hit Ship For 1st Tropic Storm Of Season

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — Ships ran into 50 mile an hour wind gusts and heavy rains in the Atlantic east of Barbados Friday and weathermen said the season's first tropical storm may be brewing.

A hurricane hunter plane was sent from Puerto Rico to investigate. Meanwhile, the Weather Bureau alerted island residents on the southeastern fringes of the Caribbean Sea.

When first reported in late morning by ships in the area, the heaviest squalls in the disturbance appeared to be located about 400 miles east-southeast of Barbados, easternmost island in the other Caribbean chain, the Weather Bureau said.

This was the same general area in which Hurricane Flora was first discovered last September. Flora turned into the worst hurricane of the 20th century, killing more than 6,000 persons in its sweep across the Windward Islands into Haiti and Cuba. The Weather Bureau warned the Windward and Southern Leeward islands to keep posted on the progress and development of the disturbance because "there is a definite threat that a tropical storm is developing."

Area Girl Hurt In Horse Mishap Is 'Doing Well'

Ten-year-old Kathleen Parrish, who was injured Thursday when a horse apparently kicked her, was reported doing well after an operation Thursday night at St. Francis Hospital in Monroe.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Parrish of Girard near Rayville. The child suffered head injuries.

Mrs. Parrish, the girl's mother, said Kathleen was trying to catch her horse, a Shetland pony, in the pasture when another horse got in the way and apparently kicked her.

She was found in the pasture by her parents after they became anxious when she did not return home.

World Legislative Bureau
BATON ROUGE — Rep. Lantz Womack of Winnsboro won House approval Friday on three bills making changes on inmates at the Louisiana State Prison at Angola.

The House voted 87-1 on a bill repealing pay for inmates, substituting good time payments.

Womack said the bills were drafted by the Department of Institutions.

AFTER HOUSE BATTLE

Bill Voted To Hike Old Age Benefits

World Legislative Bureau

BATON ROUGE — Rep. James Smith of Farmerville ran into hot opposition Friday with a bill increasing old age benefits to $83 per month. But the House came back later to pass it, 65-22.

The bill, which would cost the state an estimated $10-million, did not carry an appropriation.

Earlier, the House voted 64-32 for a bill by Smith authorizing school boards to pay lunchroom workers a minimum $125 per month.

Smith returned his old age benefits bill to the calendar Friday morning after confusion arose over the intent of the bill. But he came back in the afternoon to call for the question without debate.

Rep. Richard Talbot of Terrebonne Parish took the microphone to say, "This bill would increase old age benefits an average of $3 per month and it would permit old age recipients to make up to $50 per month without losing their benefits."

But he added, "If we don't have the money, I'm going to take this microphone day in and day out against it."

"Does this include funds in the general appropriations bill?" asked Rep. Patrick T. Caffery of Iberia Parish.

"No, it doesn't," Smith answered.

"Is it true it would cost the state about $10-million?" Caffery asked.

"I'm not sure, Smith said.

Rep. Savador Anzelmo of New Orleans said, "We don't have the money. We can't do what this bill proposes to do."

Smith's bill for a minimum salary schedule for lunchroom workers passed without the support of Gov. John J. McKeithen's floor leaders.

"This bill is a joke," said Rep. Lantz Womack, a floor leader, of Winnsboro. "It au-

AMA Queries Unfitness Study Of Youths, 18

CHICAGO (UPI)—The American Medical Association said today that draft examinations for the nation's 18-year-olds, scheduled to begin next week, were ordered by President Johnson on the basis of a politically motivated youth fitness report of "doubtful statistical soundness."

The AMA Division of Environmental Medicine and Medical Services questioned the manner in which a government task force on manpower conservation reached a conclusion that one-third of all young men reaching 18 would be found unfit for induction into the armed forces.

"A program of this size, with its many implications, deserves the serious consideration of our lawmakers, of non-governmental experts in medicine, education, vocational guidance, rehabilitation," the group said in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"It should not be allowed to come into being on the basis of a hasty, poorly substantiated political brief."

The task force was comprised of the director of Selective Service and the secretaries of defense, labor, and health, education and welfare. Its report was submitted to Johnson Jan. 1.

Solons Kill Gibbs Bill On Scholarships

World Legislative Bureau

BATON ROUGE — The House Appropriations Committee killed a bill Friday by Rep. Lawrence Gibbs of Monroe to appropriate $607,000 for legislative scholarships.

Voting 7-4, the committee rejected the measure after Rep. Robert Munson, committee chairman, of Cheneyville explained, "This is the money we plan to use for the student loan program."

A bill establishing a student loan program — one of Gov. John J. McKeithen's administration measures — has passed both houses.

"I'd like to get this on the floor of the House," Gibbs said.

"Let's get it out," said Rep. Benno Christian, a co-sponsor, of Rayville.

But Rep. Risley Triche of Napoleonville said, "It's a waste of money. I've yet to meet the man who turns money down."

Munson warned that Friday was the last day to get appropriation bills out of the committee in time to pass them through both houses, since the legislature adjourns July 10th.

But the committee voted the bill down after Gibbs argued that he wanted the scholarship program and the student loan program.

However, the committee voted 9-5 on a bill to appropriate $408,736 to reimburse five parishes for voting machines. The appropriation becomes effective in the fiscal year 1965-66.

Parishes to be reimbursed under the bill include Caddo, East Baton Rouge, Jefferson, Calcasieu and Orleans.

Miss Louisiana Parade Plans Are Outlined

Monroe and Shreveport entries will be featured in the Miss Louisiana Beauty Pageant Parade to be held at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 1.

The parade officially marks the opening of the 1964 Miss Louisiana Pageant which will be held in Monroe. Featured in the parade will be the current Miss Louisiana, Linda Gail Baucum of Springhill, and all the beauties entered in the contest.

The parade will start at Pine and Walnut Streets. It will move up Walnut to DeSiard Street and continue to Five Points, where it will disband.

The only float in the parade will carry Miss Baucum and will be designed in a Louisiana theme. Construction of the float is being done by members of the Circle K Club at Northeast State College. Contestants will ride through the parade route in a fleet of white convertibles driven by members of the college club.

Color guard for the event will be furnished by the Marine recruiting stations from Monroe and Shreveport.

A marching and twirling group and the Arab unit of El Karubah Temple with their miniature Model T autos will also represent Shreveport.

The Monroe Shrine Club will have its drum and bugle corps in the parade and a band composed of Northeast students, under the direction of Charles Chantingier will also appear.

The Pleasure Island Aqua Maids will present a water ski ballet at the River Show activities scheduled for Saturday at Ouachita River. The group includes Nancy Talbot, Sally Pierce, Barbara Buckner, Karen Crowe, Brenda Crowe, Jan Touchstone and Mary Jo Simonton. Sponsor for the group is Grady Carroll, owner of Pleasure Island on Lake D'Arbonne. The girls' coach is Mrs. Phylliss Pratt, former ballet ski performer with the Cypress Garden Aqua Maids in Florida.

John Ensminger is parade chairman.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Labor Statistics predicted, however, that the index would climb slightly in June to a new high.

The average factory worker with three dependents had $92.18 a week left after deductions for federal income and Social Security taxes.

About 190,000 workers will receive pay increase of one cent an hour because of shifts in the price index. Their pay is tied to escalator contract clauses, to escalator contract clauses.

14-Year-Old Admits Choking Grandmother

HAZLEHURST, Miss. (AP) — Copiah County authorities announced Friday a 14-year-old boy made an oral statement admitting the stocking strangulation of his grandmother.

Sheriff Hebert Deaton said Randy Davis made the statement in Jackson in the death of Mrs. Newton Davis, 72, of Hazlehurst.

Mrs. Davis was found strangled with a stocking Tuesday, about 30 yards behind her home. She had been missing since Saturday morning.

Deaton said Randy Davis was given a polygraph examination early Friday in Jackson.

"She kept nagging me," Deaton quoted the boy as saying.

The body was badly decomposed, laying in the sun in 90-degree plus weather for three days.

When found, the body was clad only in a bra and dress. Other underwear was nearby. Her shoes were jammed between the bra and flesh, authorities said.

NAACP Asks U.S. Rule Mississippi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urged Friday that the federal government take "over the administration" of Mississippi to "guarantee a Republican form of government" in that state.

The NAACP's board of directors adopted the resolution at its 55th annual convention, calling on President Johnson to invoke Article IV, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution to set up federal administration in the racially troubled state.

The section requires the government to "guarantee every state of this Union a republican form of government." The resolution declared that Mississippi "for nearly a century has failed to maintain a republican form of government."

Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, the NAACP's board chairman, announced also that a team of seven NAACP directors would start for Mississippi after the convention closes Saturday to investigate the measures being taken by state and federal authorities to determine the fate of the three young civil rights workers who disappeared near Philadelphia, Miss., last Sunday.

The committee, Bishop Spottswood said, will inquire also into the measures being taken to assure the personal safety of Mississippi citizens and the young volunteers being trained in Oxford, Ohio, for voter registration and educational work among Mississippi Negroes this summer.

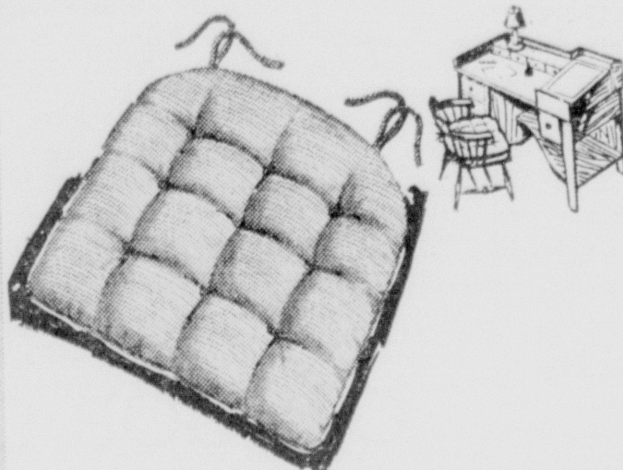

At a full session of the 2,600 delegates, the convention killed off an attempt of some delegates to change the NAACP's election procedures. One by-product of the change, it was acknowledged, might have been to unseat the association's long-time president, Arthur B. Spingarn, a white pioneer of the civil rights movement.

The leader of the drive, L. Joseph Overton of New York city, conceded defeat for the proposed constitutional change which he said would "democratize" the method of choosing a president.

Workmen's Compensation Bill Should Be Passed

One of the principal planks of Governor John McKeithen, when he was seeking office, was his promise of strong support of industrial development in Louisiana. Since his election, he has moved to carry out his promise and has taken action in support of an expanded industry for the state.

Everyone agrees that industrial development is a principal factor on which Louisiana must base its hopes for continued and growing prosperity. An increase in the number of industries or an increase in the size of those already existing means there will be more jobs, more money paid in salaries and greater prosperity for the people as a whole.

In Louisiana, one of the greatest handicaps to industrial development is an unfair workmen's compensation law. Under this law, which is not an anti-labor bill as has been pictured by some, it is possible for one man to draw total disability payments from two or three sources and still be able to work at a job that suits him well. Clearly, such a situation is beyond reason. Furthermore, it runs workmen's compensation insurance rates so high in Louisiana that industry is put at a disadvantage in comparison with other states.

To offset this disadvantage, a bill was introduced in the Louisiana legislature to correct inequities of the workmen's compensation law. Known as Senate Bill 228, the measure was passed by the Senate on June 9. An all-out effort is now being made to pass this bill in the House.

Governor McKeithen, although strongly backing the industrial development program, has not taken a definite position on the workmen's compensation bill. There are many who believe enactment of the law would give industry a bigger boost than any other single factor. Therefore, they are hoping the governor will give the bill his full endorsement and will urge its passage in the House. In this we concur.

On The Fat Of The Land

How would you like to receive three big pay raises in 21 months? How would you like a pay increase of 33 1/3 per cent at one whack? How would you like to do that when the Johnson administration is telling labor unions, business and industry to hold the line against inflation by not seeking or granting pay raises?

That sounds fantastic and unbelievable but maybe you could do it if you worked for the federal government, which is now by far the biggest employer in United States and which has 10 times as many persons on its payrolls as there are medical doctors in the United States.

With the approval of President Johnson, a bill before Congress would increase the federal payroll by $536 million a year. The proposal to spend this huge additional amount comes at a time when the nation is running deep in the red, when it is necessary to raise the national debt limit, when federal pay, particularly for some offices, is already at a high level, when the proposed raises in pay go far beyond providing a cost-of-living increase for the lower-level jobs, when some business and industrial firms are doing as requested and withholding pay raises of any kind and when a government inflationary move is practically certain to bring other demands that will further increase inflation.

How, in the name of justice, can our legislative and executive branches of government give tremendous pay boosts to federal employees without whetting the appetites of union labor leaders for further big pay increases for employees in industrial work?

Originally members of Congress proposed to increase their salaries from $22,500 to $32,500. This is in addition to $2,500 they receive in tax-free, unaccounted-for money. Now, graciously, they have consented to ease their consciences by reducing the pay increase to $7,500. What could most of us do with a pay increase of $7,500 a year? Well, we could either start living the life of Riley, in sumptuous or riotous living, or we could save the money or invest it. Just as the congressmen are doing, now get and a $7,500 pay boost would put us on "the fat of the land," just as it would do for Congressmen.

Maybe, if the country were having a big surplus every year and if it were possible to cut taxes and still have enough and maybe, if industry and business were granting big pay raises, such boosts for federal employees might be in line. As things are now, however, they are far out of line.

Strom Thurmond, United States Senator from South Carolina, a former States' Rights candidate for president, commenting on the proposed increases, said in part:

"In the past I have voted for most government pay increases. I want to see federal workers adequately paid. In fact, I would be willing to support a cost-of-living increase this year. However, this legislation goes far beyond providing a cost-of-living increase for the higher-level jobs. Members of congress would, for instance, receive an increase of 33 1/3 per cent or even more if the senate pushes the congressional boost from $22,500 to $32,500.

"It is my conviction that individuals offering for elective office should not be looking for financial gain. Public office is a public trust and the chief aim of those in public office should be service to the public.

"One of the reasons the congressional increase is being pushed is so that high-level employees can be raised. Many of them are now almost on a par with the Congress. There is a general understanding that they will not be paid as much or more than the members of Congress, thus the invitation for Congress to raise its own pay."

Pay increases for government employees would range from three per cent to 33 1/3 per cent. The lower percentage figures would be made applicable to the lower pay grades, where increases are most needed. If low-paid government employees were getting $300 a month and were to get a three per cent raise it would mean a pay increase of $9 a month or $108 a year compared to the $7,500 raise the congressmen propose to give themselves.

Many top-level administrative jobs would be boosted by as much as $4,500 a year. That is more than many people in the United States make in a year.

Administration leaders try to justify the huge pay increases on the plea that "good" employees are leaving the government because they can't live on $20,000 a year.

It is clear that the government's pay-raising spree makes no kind of practical sense. We must, therefore, search for another reason. When we remember that the federal government is the biggest employer in the United States and that it would like to please its employees just before the presidential election, finding an answer is not difficult. It is simply a vote-getting scheme in which the government figures that the more votes it gets from its own employees the fewer it will need from people in private employment who must pay the taxes for the raises.

Instead of basing its campaign for re-election on fairness and honesty, the government is basing it on favoritism and discrimination — in favor of its own employees and Negroes.

Arizona Congressman Working Out GOP Civil Rights Plank

SENATOR BARRY Goldwater depends upon Representative John J. Rhodes of Arizona, a 5-term Congressman, to find language to satisfy all factions of the Republican party on Civil Rights plank in the platform written at San Francisco. To help him put the words on paper Rhodes will have skillful writers from various G.O.P. camps. Goldwater high command predicts that if the Arizona Senator is nominated he will accept the plank as written. Republican Presidential nominees always have accepted the party platform. There are two precedents for Democratic presidential nominees in effect amending the platform. Judge Alton B. Parker, 1904 candidate, after his nomination took notice of the fact that the platform was silent on the question of the monetary standard and sent a telegram to the convention that he regarded "the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established" and would so act if elected. Should the convention find his position unsatisfactory Parker said he would decline the nomination which had been given him. The convention accepted Parker's position. The Houston convention which nominated Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York for President in 1928 adopted a plank drawn by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia pledging to enforce the 18th amendment. Smith in his acceptance speech at Albany, accepted the pledge of enforcement, but in effect amended the party platform by saying that he would recommend to Congress submission to the States of an amendment to the 18th amendment. In other speeches in the campaign he said he would lead a nation-wide fight for modification of the 18th amendment. The Prohibition Amendment was repealed in the Administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Democratic National Committee is smoother running than anyone can remember it ever being at this point in a Presidential election year. John M. Bailey is set to continue as Chairman. Party Treasurer Richard Maguire also will stay on. Cliff Carter, President Johnson's representative on the Committee has been in most States of the Union and his stature is high all over the country. The party does not have all the money in sight it is going to need for the campaign (no party ever does), but its financial prospects were never brighter. Dinners such as the President is addressing in the Midwest last week and in California last week are big revenue producers. It is all quite different from the Republican National Committee which will elect a new Chairman at San Francisco and go through an extensive re-organization in short order, and has hard-going collecting funds.

FIGHTING THE nomination of Senator Barry Goldwater for the Presidential nomination at San Francisco will be the trio which lead the fight to win the nomination of General Dwight D. Eisenhower over Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio at Chicago in 1952 — Thomas E. Dewey, Henry Cabot Lodge and Herbert Brownell. But the three-man strategy team which was so successful a dozen years ago and now will fight for the nomination of Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania holds far less power in the party now. Dewey in 1952 was Governor of New York, Lodge was United States Senator from Massachusetts, Brownell had been manager of a Dewey Presidential campaign and Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

It is not certain yet but a good guess is that Ray C. Bliss, now Republican State Chairman in Ohio and this week elected National Committeeman, will become chairman of the Republican National Committee, although he has turned a deaf ear in the past to entreaties that he take the post. Bliss is widely rated as the G.O.P.'s best political technician.

NOMINATION of Senator Barry Goldwater, front runner, as the Republican Presidential standard bearer would be expected to raise the question of the sort of appointments he would make to the United States Supreme Court. Some of the decisions of the high tribunal at its just recessed session have been so controversial as to cause speculation that it will figure as an issue to a greater extent than at any time since Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 as Progressive party nominee shocked conservatives by advocating recall of Judicial decisions. Now it is conservatives who are displeased with Supreme Court. Ages of three members of the Court suggest that the President elected in November may during the next four years appoint a sufficient number of members to decide whether the complexion of the Court will be "liberal" or "conservative."

ONLY ONE large State — New York — is seriously talking of a special session of its legislature for a re-mapping to comply with the Supreme Court decision that both Houses of a State legislature be based on population. Officials in some States, Texas among them, have urged Congressional help to rescue them from their dilemma, but chances of this are remote. All States which have sessions of their legislatures in January, 1965, are likely to wrestle with the problem. Early indications are that bills will be introduced in at least ten States proposing unicameral legislatures, the reasoning being that if representation is to be based strictly on population it might be just as well to have a single House. Sentiment on how to settle the problems caused by the Court's decisions has not had time to jell in any State. All States except Nebraska now have bicameral legislatures.

Warren Quintet's Fanatic Ideology

It is too bad that just because Mr. Robert Welch decided a few years ago that the time had come to impeach Earl Warren, effective criticism of Mr. Warren, presumably for fear of association with the John Birch Society, should have almost dried up. With a few honorable exceptions, about the only people making serious criticisms of the ideological fanaticism of Earl Warren and his quintet are, significantly enough, members themselves of the Supreme Court: Justices John Marshall Harlan, Potter Stewart, Tom Clark.

As the distinguished sociologist Professor Will Herberg has observed, this truly is a revolutionary court: it seeks to overturn the established bases of our society. It took centuries to develop the idea of federalism; but that idea is substantially overturned by the Court in the decision to deprive the elements of our republic, the several states, of political rights they have exercised since the 17th century — the right to decide for themselves how to effect a felicitous diffusion of political power, searching always for the delicate balance between majority and minority rights, so as to be able to function harmoniously.

THE WARREN Court has now struck down the government's right to regulate travel abroad by American loyalty risks — a decision understandable in itself. Except insofar as it forms a pattern with which have the effect, so far as one can gather, of informing the State Department and the Congress that there simply is no way in which the Court will permit us to deal with the kind of threat Communism represents — an unconventional threat, of an unconventional — and unknown — to, the founders of the Republic, or the drafters of the Bill of Rights. If the Constitution is in fact as flexible as it is proclaimed to be on those infrequent occasions when the liberals rejoice in it, then oughtn't it to be flexible enough to permit the government to take effective action against policy subversion and loyalty risks?

And then also last week the Court, moving into the area of what we are now trained to call civil rights, has in effect proclaimed it to be everyone's civil right to enter everyone else's property, if the purpose is to berate real or alleged discrimination. I say "in effect" because formally speaking the Court dodged the constitutional question whether the protection against "trespassing" is any longer inviolable by mere businessmen. Instead, the Court found technical reasons for voiding anti-trespassing convictions in three states. The practical effect is to encourage anyone at all to believe that he may enter somebody's premises and, for as long as he desires, lie down on the hall carpet.

THE LIST goes on and on. We may not pray in the public schools. . . . We cannot convict a man whose confession was given without a lawyer at his side. . . . We cannot define obscenity, and therefore Fanny Hill is not obscene, says a lower court, taking its lead from various decisions of the highest court. . . . Although, theoretically, a court's authority is primarily negative, i.e., it can tell a government official what it may not do, but not what it must do, the Court has actually ordered the elected officials of Prince Edward County, Virginia, to levy taxes, specifying the amount, and use them to operate schools of a kind prescribed by the Court. . . .

It is not merely the Court's tendency to become a "third legislative chamber," as Justice Learned Hand said of it at his famous lectures at Harvard shortly before he died. What is happening is that the Supreme Court's ideological fanaticism is making it increasingly difficult for our society to breathe normally: to govern itself through established traditions and authority; to rule by the local consensus; to deal effectively with its domestic enemies; to carry forward its implicit commitment to the faith of its fathers.

CONGRESS HAS available to it the instruments necessary to curb what Professor Edward Corwin, the distinguished constitutional scholar, referred to as the "aggressions of the Warren Court." If it refuses to use them, the Warren Court may after all go down in history not as the agency that instigated the dissolution of the federal system but as the agency that proved that it was thoroughly dead.

'Rights' Boosters Admit Misgivings

There weren't many reporters present when Senator Hubert Humphrey spoke his mind this week. The floor leader of the "civil rights" battle in the Senate, Mr. Humphrey felt constrained to comment on those whose view of the legislation differed from his. As usual, the Minnesotan was more than a little emphatic.

To Senator Humphrey, those Republicans who disapproved of the measure were definitely unpatriotic. This kind of attitude is, of course, not uncommon among doctrinaire liberals. But to this correspondent's tired ears they rang a jarring bell. It was not too many years ago when Mr. Humphrey and his ideological colleagues in and out of the Senate chanted in unison whenever the GOP found itself in disagreement with Democratic Administration policies.

It was standard practice in those days for liberals to yell that any questioning of their attitude towards Communism was, in itself, a charge of treason. When Mr. Nixon expressed that Harry S. Truman was in the mainstream of the Democratic Party and came to the conclusion that, to his mind, the President was betraying the principles of his party, there was an uproar. Substantial segments of the press accused Mr. Nixon of having called Mr. Truman a traitor to his country — a rather large assumption that the Democratic Party and the nation are synonymous.

SENATOR Humphrey's words to a congeries of Democratic women were that Senator Barry Goldwater had failed to put "his country above his party." Since most Democrats have been angrily arguing that Mr. Goldwater was out of step with the Republican Party on the "civil rights" measure, the Humphrey dig made little sense. But it did imply that something was sadly amiss where the Arizona Senator's patriotism is concerned.

Mr. Humphrey's anguish is, however, easy to understand. He is an astute politician and he lifted a curtain on his thought processes when he warned that the Republicans, led by Barry Goldwater, would be no pushover in November. Though he had some dark words about the sinister people who are presumably in Mr. Goldwater's camp, he acknowledged that there were very many of them. Mr. Humphrey also had another warning for the disaffiliated Democrats. He told them that the "civil rights" bill might not be a "plus" for their party.

WHICH MEANS, naturally, that many millions of Americans — enough perhaps to elect Senator Goldwater — do not share Senator Humphrey's views on the unpatriotism of opposing an act of Congress when the Democrats, for whom the Minnesotan speaks, can square these contradictions remains a puzzle to me. If a majority, or close to that, of the voters does not accept the bill as good, is he writing them off the roll of good American citizens? No practical politician would say that.

What it boils down to is this: Senator Humphrey and many of those who broke the Southern filibuster and put through a "civil rights" bill have been having some second thoughts. The Constitutional aspects of the measure were never considered by the liberals who pressed for passage.

It was fashionable during the days of the filibuster to classify all mail against the bill as coming from "nuts" and political cranks. Whatever history may decide, whatever may stem from enforcement of the bill, whatever good or bad may accrue, it is a matter of record that many thoughtful persons had serious doubts about the bill.

NOW, THERE is worry on Capitol Hill. The bill has been passed by the Senate. But how will those who were derided and called nasty names because their opinions did not coincide with Mr. Humphrey's react on election day? The contents of the "civil rights" bill are thoroughly debated in the next months, it may be as Senator Humphrey pointed out — not be a happy day for the Democratic majority.

It may, in fact, turn out that Mr. Goldwater's repugnance for discrimination and his concurrent opposition to the bill will be more in the mainstream of American politics than many believe now. Conscience wins respect — and sometimes reason does, too.

West Believes

Soviets Want

More Disarming

GENEVA (UPI) — Western officials said Friday they believed the Soviet Union wants to make more progress towards new disarmament measures this year.

But an assessment of the Geneva talks so far does not show any likelihood of firm agreements being signed before 1965, the officials said.

A combination of factors makes it appear that a formal accord will have to wait until after the American and British elections this fall.

By that time the 17-nation disarmament conference will have recessed for the United Nations General Assembly in November and will not be resumed until the next year.

The Soviets believe that it is impossible to achieve new agreements before the elections the sores said.

American and Soviet negotiators, therefore, are concentrating on making progress during the summer on bringing closer together the positions on various issues. These issues include the destruction of obsolescent bombers and prevention of the further spread of nuclear weapons.

WEDDING PREPARATIONS

Goldwater Dunked In Swimming Pool

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, dunked in a swimming pool Thursday night, directed final arrangements Friday for his youngest daughter's wedding Saturday and made sure he won't be late.

With his hilltop home overlooking Phoenix as a command post, the top contender for the Republican presidential nomination took charge of plans to handle 800 guests for the wedding of Margaret Ann (Peggy) Goldwater, 20, and Richard Arlen Holt, 26, Beverly Hills, Calif.

"I want to be there on time," said Goldwater as he decided to take a car which will arrive at Trinity Episcopal Cathedral at 7 p.m. for the 8:30 p.m. ceremony of 11 minutes.

"If there is nothing to do that early I'll sit around and play the organ," he said.

The attractive blue-eyed blonde bride, who was queen of the 1962 Azalea Festival in Norfolk, Va., spent part of the day writing thank-you notes in long-hand to more than 500 people who have sent gifts—ranging from a giant pink Mexican piggy bank to sterling silver given by her parents.

The future newlyweds met last summer at the Balboa Club in California where both were vacationing.

Holt is a junior executive for an oil firm. The couple will live in Beverly Hills after a week's honeymoon in Hawaii.

Once he had wrapped up final details for the wedding, Goldwater plunged into a series of half-hour political conferences with various associates.

Flight Plucks Seabee Off Antarctica

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP)—A badly injured American Seabee was in a Christchurch hospital Saturday after a history-making U.S. Navy flight plucked him out of the perpetual midwinter darkness of Antarctica.

Navy doctors said Builder 1.C. Bethel Lee McMullen, 39, was in serious condition from the fractured spine and concussion he suffered in a fall June 20 at McMurdo Sound.

The doctors said they would hopefull surgery would not be necessary. McMullen's legs were paralyzed in the fall. The father of four children, he is from Hueneme, Calif.

The plane, a C130 Hercules commanded by Lt. Robert V. Mayer of North Kingstown, R.I., made the first midwinter flight to Antarctica in history.

From McMurdo, Mayer, a veteran of four years of antarctic flying, radioed he planned to "stay on the deck a maximum of four hours" to load McMullen and ready the ski-shod plane for a return takeoff.

Outbound, Mayer had radioed that conditions were ideal, with visibility of 15 miles and the temperature zero.

His touchdown at McMurdo, the main U.S. base in Antarctica, was 10 minutes behind schedule when the big plane picked up heavy headwinds at its 29,000-foot cruising altitude. The plane took off from Christchurch at noon Friday, and made the 2,400-mile flight to McMurdo in 8 hours, 25 minutes. The ship landed back at Christchurch airport at 5:54 a.m. local time Saturday.

Mayer and his 15-man crew actually started their long haul in Quonset Point, R.I., arriving in New Zealand 48 hours later. After less than 11 hours of rest, briefing and other final preparations, plane and crew were winging toward the darkness at the South Pole.

"Just another routine antarctic flight," Mayer, of the Navy's Air Development Squadron 6, said of the flight.

McMullen rode well during the flight, Mayer said.

"One time I went back he was smoking a cigar. I winked at him and he smiled back. He seemed in good spirits."

McMullen might have some residual paralysis from the spine injury, said Lt. Cmdr. Richard E. Millington, medical officer of the Navy's antarctic support force. He hoped McMullen would be well enough to fly home to the United States.

Navy surgeon Lt. Cmdr. G. J. McLard said McMullen had "tremendous scalp wounds."

on the basis of actual weekly earnings rather than projected earnings.

—Spells out permanent disability.

—Hernia will no longer be the basis for total disability.

"It is my opinion that labor has had a most unfair advantage under the permanent disability set up of the law," Womack said. "But it is quite possible the bill moves in the other direction in a comparable proportion."

Any injury under the present court rulings and grounds for permanent disability, but the Davis bill tightens up the definition of permanent disability, bringing the Louisiana laws into conformity with other Southern states.

A supporter of the bill, Rep. Gordon Causey of Tangipahoa Parish said the bill was a "real industry inducement measure—basically a reform bill, in that it provides, for instance, that 'totally and permanently disabled' be defined to mean exactly what it says."

Examples have been cited," he said. "Of small industries which have located in other states simply and only because operations in this state, under present compensation laws, would cost them $50,000 a year more."

Causey said the bill would increase compensation benefits to "well above the average for southern states and would also provide greater latitude for awards."

With the bill set for a vote Monday, a businessmen's coffee was being planned to bring businessmen from throughout the state to watch the house action.

Meantime, Rep. John Garrett, a Haynesville sojourner who chairs the House Judiciary B Committee, said a hearing would be held after the House adjourns Monday on the administration's code of ethics bill.

The bill has passed the Senate.

While the house meeting Friday while the Senate was gone, a heavy workload of bills will be in the Senate during the eighth week of the session.

The Senate also hopes to vote Wednesday on the administration's $572.4-million general appropriations bill. Hearings will continue Monday morning by the Senate Finance Committee.

The Welcome Address will be made by Bruce Edmonds of Keystone Lodge No. 213, and the Response by J. Az Taylor, Oliver Lodge No. 84.

The Pledge of Allegiance will be led by E. L. Tackle, district deputy grand master of the Fourth Masonic District.

Distinguished guests will be introduced by E. E. Johnson, past district deputy grand master of the Fourth Masonic District.

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of Louisiana, Howard M. Sigler and members of his official family will be in attendance.

In addition a number of past grand masters from Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas will be in attendance.

Members of the Eastern Star will serve lunches at the Harrisonburg High School Lunch Room. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments will be served by the host lodges.

TENSE MISSISSIPPI

Governor To Eye Extreme Groups

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Gov. Paul Johnson pledged Friday that state authorities "will maintain surveillance of the activities of all extreme groups" in racially-tense Mississippi.

Johnson said in a prepared statement that he had conferred with President Johnson and Allen Dulles, former Central Intelligence Agency chief who returned to Washington Thursday after a fact-finding visit to Mississippi for the President, by telephone during the morning.

Johnson said news reports indicated Dulles had recommended to the President that close contact be maintained between the President and the governor to facilitate local, state and, as appropriate, federal action to control and prosecute "terrorist activities" in this state.

"Mr. Dulles said in response to a question by a reporter that he referred to such groups as the Ku Klux Klan and the Americans for the Preservation of the White Race," the governor said.

"I do not recall that any terrorist, or clandestine groups, were specifically named, and, as far as I am concerned, the state authorities will maintain surveillance of the activities of all extreme groups."

"This includes Negro groups as well as white groups," Johnson said.

Johnson said three other points were discussed in his telephone talks with the President and Dulles.

"I shall not comment on these until the President has released his interpretation of these three additional points to the American public," Johnson said.

Earlier in the day, Johnson told newsmen he knew at that time of no suggestions passed along by Dulles, but said Dulles advised he might be back in Mississippi later, but did not know definitely. He also said Dulles had not given him any idea whether more federal people would be sent into the state.

The governor said both he and Dulles had been surprised by action of the President sending sailors into the Neshoba County area near Philadelphia to help with a hunt for three civil rights workers who disappeared Sunday.

In a brief interview, Johnson conceded there might be dangers involved for civil rights workers coming into Mississippi but the state would do its best to protect them.

He said he was looking for more such workers but that he had information the number might not be as large as previously expected.

"A number have dropped out and have gone home, or been called home by their parents, (when they) see what a dangerous situation they could be getting into," Johnson said.

He said they were "protected

Speedy O. Long To Stump Today In Congress Bid

ALEXANDRIA (Special)—Speedy O. Long, Eight District Congressional candidate, opens his stumping campaign today with a day-long series of speeches scheduled in Sabine, Natchitoches and Winn Parishes.

The Speedy Long campaign will move into Sabine Parish for appearances slated at Converse at 9:30 a.m. and Pleasant Hill at 10:30.

Long will continue into Natchitoches Parish this afternoon, speaking at Marthaville at 1:30, Robeline at 2:30, Provençal at 3:30, Ashland at 5 p.m., and Goldonna at 6 p.m.

The day's political activities will be climaxed with a rally at Calvin in Winn Parish at 7 p.m.

A Jena attorney and former state senator, Long is basing his campaign on personal contact with the voter and his knowledge of the Eighth District. His plans call for stump appearances at all cities, towns and villages, and at every crossroads in the eight parishes of Avoyelles, Grant, LaSalle, Natchitoches, Rapides, Sabine, Vernon and Winn that make up the district.

The Democratic primary which traditionally names the Eighth District congressman is scheduled for Saturday, July 25.

How To Keep Well

By THEODORE VAN DILLION

PHOBIAS ARE ABNORMAL FEARS

A phobia is a greatly exaggerated fear. It may be so unreasonable and persistent, the victim is handicapped. Those with claustrophobia, for example, are so fearful of enclosed spaces they cannot ride in an elevator or travel by air because they can't take the confinement of a plane.

The man or woman is aware of his predicament; he knows it is illogical but can't do anything about it because the fear dominates him. When confronted with the phobia he is in agony with symptoms of intense anxiety—pounding of the heart, rapid respiration, and profuse perspiration.

A victim of claustrophobia entered a small closet to get his coat and his little grandson closed the door. The man pounded on the door and screamed so loud the family thought he was being murdered. He was so panic stricken he did not think to open the door and walk out of the closet.

There are more than a hundred specific phobias, including fear of being afraid (phobophobia). Some are easy to understand, such as cynophobia (fear of dogs); lyssa (fear of rabies); others, such as fear of everything (panophobia) or of open spaces (agoraphobia), are more difficult to appreciate. Some persons have phobias about blushing, cancer, drinking, flowers, height, lighting, body odors, and being stared at.

Most individuals with phobias are intelligent, easy-going and pleasant. Many tend to be apprehensive and emotionally immature in their ability to cope with the world. The condition is twice as common in women as in men and in many, one or both parents were neurotic. This indicates much of their anxiety stemmed from adverse situations in early life.

Seven out of 10 can be helped with psychiatric reconditioning. This will help them to take the initiative in solving the problem by employing intelligence rather than emotions.

Odom Awaiting Southside High School Report

Superintendent Van Odom of Monroe City Schools said Friday night his office has not received a report on the proposed southside high school from the State Department of Education.

A Department of Education team headed by Mack Avants, former parish superintendent of schools, conducted a survey here several weeks ago at the request of the city school system to determine if Monroe needed a high school on the southside of town.

A report came out of Baton Rouge this week saying the team recommended a southside high school.

Odom said he had written Avants inquiring about the results of the survey and said Avants promised him the report would be ready by this week. However, it had not been received Friday afternoon.

The local superintendent said he was very anxious to receive the recommendation before the next meeting of the city school board scheduled July 7.

Coming Season Brings New Hopes, More Experience To Denver 11

By RICK BRYAN

Paul Manasseh, new assistant general manager of the Denver Broncos, is spending the dwindling days before summer football practice, vacationing in his old Louisiana "stomping grounds."

If Manasseh, who was once associated with the minor league baseball teams in both Monroe and Shreveport, had any indication 1964 would be a repeat, his vacation might be more extended. In fact, he probably wouldn't go back at all. Denver won only two regular season games in the American Football League last year.

But 1964 promises to be different.

For one thing the Broncos won't be nearly as inexperienced. "Seventeen of our 33 players were rookies last year," says Manasseh. "That gave us the youngest team in AFL history. We knew we were going to have a bad year and we figured we might as well let our young people be gaining valuable experience."

One of the most inexperienced positions was quarterback. Denver lost or traded three veteran quarterbacks early in the year and went a good bit of the season with rookie Mickey Slaughter from Louisiana Tech.

The only quarterback with any experience was John McCormick who had spent a year with the Minnesota Vikings. He was injured most of the campaign, however.

"I think the quarterback situation will be a lot better," says Manasseh. "Slaughter did an exceptional job for a rookie. He is

Arkansas Rookie In Solo Second; Presses Palmer

CLEVELAND (AP)—

Alltime money winner Arnold Palmer and a youngster who never has won a dime furnished the fireworks Friday in the second round of the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

Palmer and R. H. Sikes Jr. of Springdale, Ark., a 23-year-old who turned pro just a few weeks ago, toured the 6,821, par 71 Highland Park layout in 64 strokes.

At the halfway mark in the 72-hole test, which ends Sunday, Palmer was in front with 131, the lowest 36-hole total of the year. Sikes, the 1961 and 62 National Public Links champion and winner of last year's NCAA title, was just one stroke back.

Each had eight birdies and a bogey in their sensational rounds, the best of the year for each.

Most of the talent was near the top after the first two rounds, with Jack Nicklaus in third place at 133 and George Bayer and Al Geiberger deadlocked at 134.

So terrific was the scoring that cards of 144, only two over par, or better were necessary to be among the 90 who continue play Saturday.

Some big names were among the casualties, with Ken Venturi, winner of last week's National Open, heading the list. Ken turned in a 145, one away from the magic number, despite a 70 Friday. Others who failed to make it included Jerry Barber, Gardner Dickinson, Dow Finsterwald, Al Bessellink, Doug Ford, and Al Balding.

Palmer's lone bogey came on his only three-putt green of the first two rounds, the par five 16th hole, but he sank birdie putts ranging from three to 30 feet on eight other holes.

Nicklaus, who parred the first seven holes, canned a 103-yard wedge shot for an eagle on the 377-yard eighth and then birdied four holes coming home with 10-to-12 foot putts to get into contention.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Second round leaders in the Cleveland Open Golf Tournament over Highland Park's 6,821, par 71 course.

Arnold Palmer, 31, of Springdale, Ark., and R. H. Sikes Jr., 23, of Springdale, Ark., tied for first with 131 strokes.

Palmer, who earlier had slammed a three-run homer, ignited the winning rally with a one-out single in the 10th. Banks advanced to third on a single by Len Gabrielson and scored the tying run when Gabrielson was forced at second on Clemens' fly that dropped safely in short center.

After Dick Bertell singled Clemens to third, Don Larsen replaced Owens and gave up the game-winning single to Burke, who batted for Burdette.

a very smart boy and it's something anytime a rookie completes over half his passes. He should be better this year."

Slaughter left earlier this week for Denver. The Broncos' quarterback school opens in early July and the rookies report in July 18.

"Physically, Slaughter appears to be less of a question mark than McCormick," he said. Slaughter dislocated his right shoulder in the fading seconds of a 35-31 loss to Oakland in the next to last game.

"At Mickey's age, the arm should heal okay and not cause him anymore trouble."

Slaughter worked with weights since early in March to strengthen his shoulder and was throwing up to 55 yards before he left.

"Our pass defense should be stronger," Manasseh says. "We have Willie Brown from Grambling at one cornerback. He is going to be a fine one. And on the other side we got Willie West from Buffalo in a trade."

Several rookies should help out.

Matt Snorten, a 6-5, 260 pounder from Michigan State, should brighten the picture at right end. Snorten, who will play in the all-star game, is a good receiver and considered an excellent blocker.

From Florida A&M is coming Al Densin, a 6-2, 220 pound running mate of Bob Hayes. "We will probably try Densin at both flankerback and running back," says Manasseh. "By the way, we drafted Hayes as a future."

Another good prospect is Ray Kubala, the giant lineman from Texas A&M.

And always on hand is split end Lionel Taylor. Manasseh can't say enough about Taylor. "He has great hands, fine moves, leadership ability and sufficient speed. Out of 123 passes thrown to him last fall, he dropped only six."

Confident that his appraisal is accurate, Manasseh, who was made assistant general manager this year, is heading back to Denver soon. Some indication of whether he is right or wrong will come soon. Philadelphia Powers Past Cards In Ninth Inning, 6-5

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Clay Dal-rymple's ninth-inning homer, a two-run blast to right, gave Na-tional League leading Philadel-phia a 6-5 victory over St. Louis Friday night after the Cardinals er Jim Bunning. Tony Gonzalez opened the Phillie ninth against reliever Ron Taylor with a double. Dal-rymple then unloaded his second homer of the season onto the right-center pavilion roof.

The Cardinals had rallied to take a 5-4 lead in a three-run eighth inning, knocking out Bun-ning. Curt Flood's grounder brought in the lead run.

Richie Allen's 15th homer, a two-run shot in the sixth, had rubbed out an early Cardinal lead.

Bob Skinner, who ignited the Cardinals' eighth inning rally with a double, had four hits for St. Louis. After Dick Groat singled behind Skinner, Ed Roebuck replaced Bunning.

Bunning, who pitched a perfect game against New York in his last start last Sunday, had his string snapped in the first inning Friday when leadoff bat-ter Curt Flood tagged him for a double.

DEFENDING WIMBLEDON CHAMP

McKinley Bothered By Southpaw Player

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Defending champion Chuck McKinley had his troubles with a left-hander again Friday in the Wimbledon tennis tourna-ment but finally won through to the round of eight, where his opponent will be another south-paw.

McKinley, who romped to the title last year without losing a set, went four sets before he prevailed over Britain's Billy Knight, 8-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 in the fourth round.

McKinley is the only Ameri-can left in the men's singles, with a week to go in the tourna-ment. There were 25 when the tourney started.

The only other American in the last 16 and the only Negro competing, Arthur Ashe from Richmond, Va., lost in straight sets to the No. 1 seed, Roy Emerson of Australia, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5.

Rafael Osuna, Mexican hold-er of the U.S. singles title, knocked out the other Ameri-can, Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, in a delayed third-round match.

McKinley has lost four sets in his four victories this year—all to lefties.

Chicago, Twins Split Two-Night Doubleheader

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, held to one single by Minnesota southpaw Gerry Arriago in losing the opener 2-0, roared back to belt the Twins 9-4 and gain a split in a two-night doubleheader Friday.

The White Sox rocked Camilo Pascual for five runs on Pete Ward's three-run homer in the third and J. C. Martin's two-run homer in the fourth. Jim Landis drove in three runs against Twin relief pitchers with a pair of singles.

Those blows enabled Juan Pi-zarro to hurl his ninth victory against four losses. Tony Oliva and Harmon Killebrew tagged Pizarro for successive homers in the fourth, and three Minne-sota hits in the seventh brought in another run. Hoyt Wilhelm retired the Twins in the ninth after Bob Allison tagged his 10th homer.

Mike Hershberger's leadoff single in the ninth inning of the opener spoiled Arriago's no-hit bid.

Arriago fed Hershberger a high fastball on his second pitch and the White Sox outfielder lined a solid single to right-center. The 23-year-old rookie left-hander bore down to get the next three batters, however, and won his fifth game against one loss.

Killebrew whacked his 24th homer with Tony Oliva, who had doubled, aboard in the sixth in-ning to win the opener. The blow came off loser Joel Horlen. Kil-lebrew then hit his 25th in the nightcap.

Auto Worker Unions Wage Contract Talks To Bear Political Significance

DETROIT (AP) — The Big Three car-builders and union production workers lift the curtain next week on wage contract talks with national political and economic significance. Already edgy, the atmosphere clouded further a few days ago in a tart exchange between Henry Ford II and union leaders that focused on the possibility of a strike.

Representatives of General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp., jointly with negotiators for Walter P. Reuther's United Auto Workers Union, must write new agreements to succeed the three-year pacts that expire Aug. 31.

GM sessions start Tuesday. Ford's on Wednesday and Chrysler's on Thursday.

UAW bargainers are expected to shoot for twin main goals—earlier retirement with higher pensions, and more or longer "breathers" to break up the factory work day. Many other issues will arise.

The timing of the negotiations in this election year invests them with political potentials.

The climax of bargaining easily could coincide with the kickoff of the presidential campaign, traditionally launched by the Democratic nominee with a Labor Day rally in Detroit's Cadillac Square.

A strike, or government intervention in negotiations, thus might have repercussions.

A second aspect of timing relates to prospects for continuation of the strong upswing in the nation's economy that has stretched over more than three years, a record postwar duration.

Also in the background are:

1. An auto production and sales pace that promises the industry its first 8-million car year in 1964. This has meant large profits for the companies, abundant work and generous overtime to UAW men.
2. Government policy is to fight renewed inflation through pressures on labor and industry for restraint in wage demands and price rises.

Union leaders, including Reuther, repeatedly have said they wouldn't be bound by administration guidelines on wage demands. Automen regard price-making as their own affair.

The recent flurry between Ford and the UAW was touched off by a speech the industrialist made to a business group in Fordia.

Ford said indicated UAW demands were "out of touch with reality," that the company wouldn't make an "exorbitant" settlement and that willingness for a business to accept a strike was a part of free and responsible bargaining.

Reuther said Ford's remarks were untimely and that the UAW didn't want a strike. Another UAW official said Ford from his "lofty position can't make out the American scene below."

Straight wage increase objectives have received scant UAW attention compared with the intensively discussed liberalized retirement goal.

On this point, there has been some conflict within the union, with Reuther seeking to keep goals in a broad focus for maximum bargaining flexibility to achieve "greater worker equity."

The General Motors, Ford and Chrysler councils of the UAW, powerful elements in the union hierarchy, have leaned to more rigid formulas, such as the "85 factor."

Under that concept, retirement would be granted any employee whose years of service and age totaled 85—for instance 30 years on the job and age 55.

Retirement now is permissible at 65, mandatory at 68, with benefits of $2.80 a month for each year of service.

Reuther himself has suggested phased retirement—perhaps cutting the workday in half at 60, with full retirement two or three years later.

Some company spokesmen have taken a strong position against what the UAW labels as its No. 1 "noneconomic" goal, more daily relief time from sessions in return.

what UAW Douglas Fraser calls the "tedious and repetitive monotony" of the assembly line.

Now each Big Three worker gets two 12-minute breaks daily. UAW officials have talked of setting aside an additional 20 minutes, making an over-all 44 minutes of relief time.

In bargaining on a similar point three years ago, smaller American Motors Corp. won a reduction from 44 minutes to 39 minutes daily, and valued this as a $1.5 million gain. The company made profit-sharing concessions in return.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

In these days we are not supposed to walk a lot, and we don't as much as our forebears did. However, I think the modern housewife feels that she is on her feet much of the time, regardless of her push-button appliances and her car.

When she has been at leisure during the past few years she has been forced to wear shoes which distorted her feet, and if she is overweight that places an extra strain on her underpinnings. So, the logical conclusion is that her feet deserve some special care.

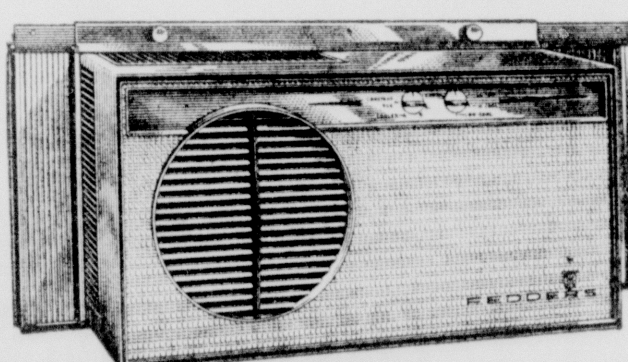

It is important to wear shoes that give the woman in the home real support. Also a few exercises, done regularly, are wise preventive measures even if you have no real trouble now. Let me give you two good ones.

1. Stand on a man's handkerchief. Try to gather the handkerchief under your feet by pulling it back under with your toes. Spread the handkerchief out again and do the same thing. Try this about six times.

2. Stand on a large book with your toes over the edge of the book. Curl your toes around the edge of the book, gripping hard with the toe. Hold while you count to 10 slowly. Relax and continue.

Just walking around the room without shoes, on the outside

DEAR ABBY

Tell Boyfriend His Moustache Not Cute

By ABAGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We moved into a new neighborhood and I started going to the neighborhood beauty shop. The last two times I went, the same lady with legs in her slip with her big fat legs showing as well as her blouse and sat there in a thin nylon bra. The lady in the slip didn't care what showed. I go to the beauty shop every Saturday and my 8-year-old son likes to go with me. He was so embarrassed by all these half-dressed women he could hardly keep his mind on his comics. He has plenty of time before he has to learn what half-dressed women look like. He doesn't have to learn it at 8 years of age in a beauty shop. Should I tell those brazen women to be more modest? Or should I ask the shop manager to keep her customers covered?

DEAR NEW: Women in various stages of undress have more business in a beauty shop than an eight-year-old boy. Leave the lad at home.

DEAR ABBY: Why would a young, intelligent married woman go to someone's home for dinner with her hair done up in rollers and a scarf when she had been told there would be 16 other guests? I hope you can think of a good excuse for her because she is really a good girl otherwise.

DEAR BAFFLED: She'll have to think of her own "excuses." But if you are interested in the reason, it is obvious. She's saving her best self for a worthier occasion, which is no compliment to her hostess.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is not quite 17 and he has grown a moustache — at least, that's what he calls it. It isn't very thick or dark. In fact, it just looks like he forgot to wash his face but, nevertheless, it is a moustache and he thinks it looks good. Everyone makes fun of it behind his back. When my mother saw it for the first time she had to bite her lip to keep from laughing. I really wish that I would shave it off. How should I tell him? I hate to hurt his feelings.

DEAR KATHY: Tell him in the kindest, frankest, plainest words you can find. But TELL him.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who signed herself "WAITING" is not the only one whose husband uses poker games as a cover up for evenings spent with other women. How do I know? Because I was the "other woman" (for a while). I later learned that there had been many in his life before me. He is in his fifties, married, a devoted father and grandfather. But what kind of husband? I am glad I was only "the other woman" instead of his wife. BITTER

Troubled? Write to ABBY, c/o News Star. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cheniery Lake Recreational Center Attractions Growing

By CAROL BRAXTON
World Staff Writer

It's not the fisherman's paradise of the world, nor is it the most scenic spot in the United States, yet, but Cheniery Lake is being developed to become just this.

Jessie Brantley, superintendent, when asked about the new face Cheniery Lake is taking on said, "We just got out in the gravel pits and developed it."

The 3,287 acre area is designed primarily as a recreational center. The lake itself covers 3,500 acres and is dotted with cypress and tupla gum trees. Bass, brim, speck and some buffalo and catfish are the game fish found in the lake. The man-made lake was stocked from the river.

There are seven boat launching areas around the lake. Although Cheniery does not rent boats, there are four private docks maintained on private property where boats can be rented. Boat motors are restricted to 10 horsepower on the lake. It had been limited to seven and one-half horsepower, but the limit was increased this year.

About 100 acres of the Cheniery Lake property is divided into six parks which have six waterwells with electric pumps, which Brantley describes as having "good drinking water." These sections are designated as Area 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7. There are four large shelter sheds within these areas which are reserved for 26 persons or more and are furnished free of charge. Reservations are handled by Brantley or his wife who live Cheniery Dam Road. Smaller sheds are located at strategic points in the parks and are available to anyone without charge or reservations.

One of the four large sheds, located in Area No. 5, is reserved for Negroes.

Each area is provided with modern barbecue facilities, picnic tables, barbecue pits and screened-in kitchens. There are no cooking facilities in the kitchens, however, each shed is equipped with electricity and office pots can be used easily.

Brantley said that more than 20,000 people have used the lake's facilities this year. "In fact," he stated, "we seldom have enough tables for everyone and there are 100 picnic tables in the park areas."

Area No. 4 has had 9,100 people using it at one time or another this year, according to Mrs. Brantley who kept a record of the large sheds. She explained that this figure did not include the number of persons who used this area, but didn't make reservations. This is the most popular area in the lake region.

The largest shed is in Area

No. 1 which is actually two complete units in one. Area No. 6 is unofficially designated as the Boy Scout area.

The lake has 40 miles of boat markers on it. These markers are guidelines to give fishermen directions and keep them from getting lost. All the arrow markers point toward the shore.

When the land was purchased all underbrush was cut out. Any tree which gave shade out and limbs and other debris were moved out. No one is supposed to molest or destroy any of the growth in the area. Oak, gum, pine, hickory, cypress, dogwood, ash and black gum trees are found all over the lake region.

Anyone can hunt ducks from boats or blinds, but this is the only kind of hunting allowed at Cheniery. If a person wants to set up a duck blind all he has to do is call Brantley, pay the $5 for the first year permit fee and set his blind up at least 300 feet away from the other blinds. There are 37 blinds situated around the lake and all are provided with metal plates with the owner's name and address.

Commercial fishing is allowed, and the only restriction on fishing is that commercial fishermen can't use nets which are less than four inches, because a smaller net may snag some game fish.

No skiing is allowed on the water, because all the trees and other debris would make it dangerous.

The lake is about eight to fifteen feet deep and is therefore a relatively shallow lake.

Cheniery Lake is the result of a bond issue which was floated in 1960 levying one-fourth of a mill for five years for purchase of the property which amounted to $150,000 and one-tenth of a mill for five years for purchase of the property which amounted each year or approximately $11,000 a year. The property is set up under a Cheniery Lake Commission which is composed of a seven-man team who are Arthur S. Tidwell Jr., chairman; Hobson Norris, past co-chairman; J. S. Trichel, Robert C. Downing, past chairman; Jack Rushing, first chairman; E. D. Elmore, co-chairman and Lloyd Voorhees. The commission serves without pay and are appointed by the Ouachita Police Jury for a term of from one to four years. Six men are part of the original commission. Voorhees was appointed to replace the late Fred Patterson.

The group meets once a month in the Ouachita Parish Police Jury Room in the courthouse.

Tidwell said that the "Ouachita Parish Police Jury has helped tremendously by financing such things as the restroom facilities which the commission would have been momentarily unable to provide."

Brantley said "The police jury has bent over backwards at times trying to help us."

In 1958 Norris presented a resolution to the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission proposing that the state buy the lake land. This did not pass. However, Norris then suggested that the police jury call an election for the parish to buy the property. Norris said, "We were worried about the outcome, but it went over real big." Parish ownership of property such as Cheniery Lake is unique. Usually only states invest in such a venture.

The level of the lake is maintained at 66 feet which is an increase of two and one-half feet over the level kept before its purchase by the parish.

The Department of Public Works appropriated $17,000 for modern concrete boat launching ramps to be constructed soon. One will be placed at Area No. 1 and another at Area No. 4. If there is money left over, a ramp will be built at Area 5.

ONE OF MANY SHEDS located in the park areas of Cheniery Lake equipped with kitchen facilities, barbecue pits and electric outlets is seen on the shore facing the lake. There are 100 picnic tables situated around various sheds like this one in the park areas.

CHENIERE LAKE offers good fishing with game fish such as bass, brim, speck and some buffalo and catfish, peace and serenity for those who wish to relax, and playground facilities to keep the children entertained. The cypress and tupla gum trees in the lake afford shade for the fisherman who wants to stay out of the sun.

One of the bills was an enabling act.

Cuba Claims U.S. Sentry Shot Soldier

HAVANA (UPI) — A Cuban government statement said Friday a sentry at the U. S. Guantanamo naval base in Oriente Province shot and seriously wounded a Cuban soldier late Thursday night.

It was the second incident reported this month. The first, June 10, was denied by the State Department, which held out the possibility the Cuban sentry might have been shot by a guerrilla.

Friday's War Ministry statement said Pvt. Andres Noel Landruet was hit in the left side of the chest by one of two bullets fired by a U. S. Marine sentry. The second bullet blew out a tire.

Scranton Men Confer Today

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Top Republican leaders including Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, will participate in a top-level strategy session Saturday to aid Gov. William W. Scranton in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller was among a number of Republican governors invited to the session which apparently will attempt to work out ways to head off the nomination of front-running Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

TOKYO (UPI) — Five industrial experts from Cuba arrived Thursday in Peking for the Communist Chinese New China News Agency reported Friday.

NOTES ANNIVERSARY

West Berlin Gives RFK Huge Welcome

BERLIN (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of West Berliners turned out Friday to give a big and hearty welcome to U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as he commemorated the first anniversary of the triumphal visit by his brother, the late President Kennedy as a man dedicated to making the world a better place to live in. And he told Europeans it is erroneous to conclude that Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona has widespread support in the United States.

Kennedy made the comment at a news conference when asked about Goldwater, regarded as the favorite in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

"The primary does not indicate many millions of Americans favor Goldwater," Kennedy said. "He lost in New Hampshire and Oregon. He won in California, but he was running only against Gov. (Nelson A.) Rockefeller, who had problems involving his personal life.

"That does not indicate widespread support. All of the polls show that Goldwater is not so popular, that he has disadvantages and difficulties to reckon with. I may be thought prejudiced as a Democrat, but I have had experience with political campaigns and judge objectively."

He declared any candidate who opposes the government in the United States will find some followers.

"Running against the government is pretty popular," he added. "I'm surprised that Goldwater has not gotten more support. But he starts getting into difficulties when he advocates something."

Police estimated that more than a quarter-million West Berliners lined the streets on this clear, warm day to wave, applaud and cheer as Kennedy drove by in an open limousine with Mayor Willy Brandt.

Another 80,000 jammed the square in front of the city hall renamed after President Kennedy for the unveiling of a plaque in his memory. It was one of the biggest displays of popular enthusiasm in the city's history.

The attorney general was greeted by the rolling "Ken-nedee, Ken-nedee" shouts that had sounded just a year ago when his brother drew over a million well-wishers.

"A new president leads our land, but our course is unchanged for under President Kennedy, as under President Johnson, we are committed to your freedom," the attorney general told the crowd at Kennedy Square.

The applause and approving shouts lasted minutes. He was interrupted again and again.

He added that when the president left Berlin at that memorable day he remarked to those with him he would leave a note for his successor telling him that in his moment of discouragement or despair "go to Berlin."

"I know what he meant because I have done so," the attorney general said. "I see again what he meant because I look out on all of you."

"I know what he meant when he surveyed the wall of shame and measured it against your courage and said, 'Ich bin ein Berliner.'" (I am a citizen in Berlin.)

Tshombe Asks Congo Factions To Make Peace

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Cries of "Save the Congo" greeted Katanga's ex-president, Moise Tshombe Friday night as he urged warring Congolese politicians to make peace.

"I am convinced that a total and sincere reconciliation of all Congolese is the only chance of saving this country from misery and anarchy," the 44-year-old former chieftain of Katanga Province's secession declared at the end of more than a year of self-imposed exile in Europe.

Tshombe flung his hands above his head and his face broke into a broad grin as hundreds of cheering Congolese chanted his name and clapped wildly. The welcome seemed to Tshombe will be the Congo's next premier.

Negro Youths Injure Ten In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Gangs of Negro youths just released from high school for the summer roamed the streets and lakefront on Chicago's Near North Side Friday, looting stores and attacking white persons.

Police said at least 10 persons were injured. A 17-year-old boy was stabbed in the abdomen on the North Avenue Beach. Two policemen were burned on the hands by cigarettes as they tried to arrest the youths. Henrotin Hospital reported an assault victim with a possible broken jaw.

None of the injuries was believed to be serious, however.

Extra squads of police swarmed through the area surrounding lush Lincoln Park along the Lake Michigan shore. They ran down the gangs wherever they could find them and by mid-afternoon at least 21 youths were in custody.

Police said the gangs apparently formed spontaneously as classes were let out for the summer holidays at Robert O. Waller High School, northwest of Chicago's Loop.

The youths, between 100 of them, began to wander in small bunches towards the lake. The weather was sultry.

Clairvoyant Wrong Again; Digging Stops

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities gave up digging Friday for Judge Joseph Crater, who has been missing for 34 years. They found no trace of the jurist.

Under the direction of Westchester County Sheriff John E. Hoy, workers excavated a 50 by 85-foot hole, 2½ feet deep, on the roadside where a Dutch clairvoyant divined that Crater had been buried.

The same clairvoyant, Gerard Croiset, had caused a Yonkers yard to be dug up five years ago. He said his extrasensory perception told him that Crater was buried there.

The latest digging came about from Croiset's decision that the judge originally had been buried in the yard but was moved to the roadside location before the 1959 excavation.

Crater disappeared in August, 1930, becoming the city's most famous missing person.

TAIPEI, FORMOSA (UPI)—The United States has agreed to a $35.9 million loan to Nationalist China for two new power plants in Formosa, official sources said Friday.

OFFER REUNION PROBES

West Big Three Claim Reds Want Split Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Big three charged Friday that the Soviet Union's new treaty with Communist East Germany "seeks to perpetuate the arbitrary division of Germany."

Proclaiming again their opposition to this, the United States, Britain and France offered anew to explore with Moscow any opportunity for reuniting Germany in freedom. They added, "Such a settlement should be sought as soon as possible."

The Western powers spoke in a six-point tripartite declaration setting forth their joint position on the Soviet-East German treaty of friendship and aid signed in Moscow on June 12.

The public declaration mainly reaffirmed the long-standing Western posture on Germany and Berlin.

Privately, Western diplomats held to their earlier views that the June 12 pact was a Moscow sop to East German chief Walter Ulbricht rather than the long-threatened Kremlin move to revamp the tough German situation through a full-fledged peace treaty with the East German regime, which the West does not recognize.

Despite Friday's offer to search for a settlement including "progressive solutions" to bring about German reunification, informants said there is little evidence that the Soviet Union is interested in moving forward on the German issue.

Because the Western response to the June 12 treaty was issued only as a public declaration, released simultaneously in the three capitals and in Bonn, it does not require a new round of diplomatic note exchanges with Moscow.

Perhaps anticipating the Western statement, the Soviet Union sent notes to the Western three restating its determination to defend East Germany's frontiers.

The Tass news agency reported that the notes handed to the Western embassies Thursday in Moscow charged West Germany's holding of a federal presidential election in West Berlin is a "provocative" action.

The Kremlin long has opposed inclusion of West Berlin in West German activities.

The Western declaration said the June 12 treaty ignores the U.N. Charter provision for self-determination.

"By ignoring this principle," the Western Allies said, "the agreement of June 12 seeks to perpetuate the arbitrary division of Germany, which is a continuing source of international tension and an obstacle to a peaceful settlement of European problems."

The declaration made these points:

—The Western powers consider the Soviet Union remains bound by its postwar occupation agreements on Germany and "they will continue to hold the Soviet government responsible for the fulfillment of its obligations."

—After the Russians blocked four-power administration of Berlin, the Western three in 1954 authorized close ties between Berlin and the Bonn government. But this in no way diminishes "the rights and responsibilities of the four powers in regard to Berlin."

—The Western three regard the Bonn government as the only free and legitimate German regime. As for the June 12 treaty's reference to "frontiers" of East Germany, the West acknowledged that no more than a "demarcation line" divides Germany.

—The June 12 charges of West German militarism are unfounded because the Bonn Government has renounced use of force to change its boundaries and this remains its policy.

—The exercise of self-determination, which should lead to the reunification of Germany in peace and freedom, remains a fundamental objective of the three governments.

—The three governments are convinced that such a settlement should be sought as soon as possible. This settlement should include progressive solutions which would bring about German reunification and security in Europe.

"On such a basis, the three governments are always ready to take advantage of any opportunity which would peacefully re-establish German unity fully re-establish German unity in freedom."

17 Missing In Viet Nam; Fate Puzzle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seventeen U.S. servicemen have disappeared while fighting the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam. Mystery surrounds their fate.

The men, all carried on Pentagon casualty lists as "missing," include 11 Army officers and enlisted men, two Marines, and four airmen who may have survived plane or helicopter crashes.

Their chances of survival are not considered good. Of the five cases where it was definitely determined that American servicemen were captured in Viet Nam, three of the men were later released by the Communists and two died while in captivity.

A dozen or more of the 17 may be prisoners of the Viet Cong guerrillas. Vague Communist broadcasts and what the Pentagon describes as "peasant rumors" suggest that some of them are moved frequently and occasionally paraded through Communist-held villages by their captors.

This lack of information makes it difficult to initiate action through diplomatic channels to secure their release, or to try to free them through military action.

As of Monday, Pentagon casualty lists carried 234 American dead and 937 wounded in South Viet Nam. The Defense Department has abandoned attempts to distinguish in these reports between men listed as missing and those listed as captured.

Deputy Envoy Sees Hard Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U. Alexis Johnson left Friday for his new post as deputy ambassador in South Viet Nam. He said there are "no magic answers" to the problem of Southeast Asia — "It's just going to be a lot of hard work."

Johnson, who has been deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs, will begin operations in Saigon in advance of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, named ambassador by President Johnson to replace Henry Cabot Lodge.

MONEY SAVER, RAISER

Johnson Plays Frugal Roles In Foray To Party Dinner

DETROIT (AP) — President Johnson combined the roles of money-raiser and money-saver Friday as he flew to Detroit to begin a three-day foray into Michigan and Minnesota.

Governor Tours City After Strife

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Farris Bryant toured strife-torn St. Augustine on Friday and said he might send in more state troops, but would not call out the National Guard "at least for the moment."

The governor, arriving the morning after this city's worst outbreak of racial violence, said he might broaden the ban on night demonstrations that he invoked more than a week ago.

It was this curfew that caused U.S. Dist. Judge Bryant Simpson at Jacksonville to order the governor to show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

The judge had held a similar ban, imposed by St. Augustine police, a violation of freedom of speech and assembly.

While Bryant conferred with his top officers at National Guard headquarters here, Atty. Gen. James Kynes defended him in the contempt case.

Kynes called Judge Simpson's order to the governor a "misconceived, improper and inadequate means of challenging the exercise of sovereign power by a state governor."

"The governor of Florida has the dominant interest in preventing violence and disorder," he said. "The state is the natural guardian of the public against violence."

"No action of this court should be interpreted to leave the state powerless to avert such emergencies."

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., director of the assault on St. Augustine's racial barrier, was an observer at the hearing.

A petition by Negroes to strike down the governor's ban, King said, was intended to show that the prohibition on night marches could not prevent violence in the face of inadequate police protection.

Maj. John Jourdan of the Florida Highway Patrol, commander of a special police force created by the governor, testified that "it is all we can do to prevent injury and killing."

Bryant reached St. Augustine after the worst night of violence so far. While he was here, and while the Negroes were pressing their case before Judge Simpson, demonstrators marked time.

Thursday night, a screaming mob of hundreds of whites attacked civil rights marchers and King said only the refusal of Negroes to retaliate "saved the city from a bloody night of terror."

While rejecting the idea of an immediate National Guard call-out, Bryant noted, "The situation could change in an hour."

"I will tell the people of St. Augustine and Florida that we must maintain law and order, regardless of our feelings for or against certain persons," he said.

The governor said he might broaden his curfew to be effective from sundown to sunup. At present, it goes into effect at 8:30 p.m. and massive demonstrations have been staged after dark.

Tobias Simon of Miami, attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, testified in a Jacksonville hearing that state officers arrested Negroes for merely defending themselves against white attackers.

He charged, too, that state troopers made no effort to investigate the attempted drowning of a white integrationist, Charles Ling, during a swim-in at the St. Augustine beach.

Johnson, who is addressing two Democratic fund-raising dinners during the trip, saved the party money, too, by taking an economy flight from Washington.

The President flew to Metropolitan Airport in a 10-passenger Air Force Jetstar transport instead of his regular Boeing 707. The Democrats, who are paying the freight for the political trip, will be billed considerably less for the smaller plane than would have been the case had Johnson used the 45-passenger 707.

Johnson's decision to use the Jetstar caused some eyebrow-raising because, in flight, he had to forego a full Secret Service escort—useful in the event of an unscheduled landing—and, according to some White House sources, he was without the full range of communications gear normally at his fingertips.

The President's major mission in Detroit was an appearance at a Democratic $100-a-plate dinner in a big convention center, Cobo Hall.

In his text prepared for the dinner, Johnson jibed at the noisy struggle for the Republican presidential nomination.

"It is, perhaps, typical of some others that their major issue in this year of change and crisis, of great hazard and emerging hope, is who is going to stop what," he said.

This was an obvious reference to the efforts of some Republicans to stop Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona from capturing the GOP nomination.

"I have no opinion about the outcome of that battle," Johnson said. He added that he could say that "no one is going to stop the great forward march we began four years ago"—the year the Democrats recaptured the presidency.

"You are not going to let them," he said, "the American people are not going to let them. And, as long as I am President of the United States, so help me God, I am not going to let them."

The chief executive devoted much of his text to outlining what he termed "our policy for prosperity."

Saying "drive towards prosperity," Johnson added, "Men of little vision and small vitality have always underestimated the American potential for progress."

He said if Americans work together "in a policy of prosperity, we can build an America where every man can meet his desires for decent life, where no man lacks the dignity of labor."

The prosperity policy, as Johnson outlined it, contained nothing new. He promised to stimulate growth, control inflation, fight poverty, promote technology and modernization and help the elderly.

Johnson was spending the night in Detroit and will fly to Minneapolis on Saturday to address another party dinner there. Then, on Sunday, he will make an appearance at Swedish Day festivities in Minneapolis.

The Washington decision to use the Jetstar throughout the trip was announced barely three hours before his departure from Washington.

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, said the move was prompted by the fact that Johnson was traveling with a small party.

Asked whether the end result would be a considerable saving for the Democratic party, he replied, "I would assume so, yes."

Johnson once before, as president used a Jetstar. This was to fly from Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Tex., to his LBJ Ranch, 65 miles away.

A Jetstar was used only once by the late President John F. Kennedy. That was in an emergency when he flew to Cape Cod last summer for the birth of a son who died two days later.

Reedy said there was no communications problem with the

GOP Writers To Hold Line On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican platform writers will not try to outpromise Democrats on future civil rights enactments, but will pledge their candidate to vigorous enforcement of the 1964 legislation, the Platform Committee chairman predicted Friday.

The chairman, Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., said he is certain militant civil rights groups will press both parties for support of projects going beyond the civil rights bill now nearing final enactment.

Two proposals sure to come up, he said, are mandatory racial quotas on jobs and use of federal school aid to require assignment of children to individual schools on a race-proportion basis.

"Student assignments and job quotas are not federal responsibilities," Laird told newsmen.

Reminding them that the decision on the platform will be made by the whole committee of about 100, he said he hopes it will "recommend prompt and effective implementation of the law passed Thursday, rather than a shopping list of new items."

Laird indicated he thinks his Democratic counterparts are likely to draft a document going beyond the new bill.

"I believe the Democratic party if it takes an extreme position is not being honest with the American people," he said. "It is not promising something it can deliver."

Laird repeated his earlier expression of opinion that Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, if he is nominated, could endorse a platform plank pledging the nominee to strict enforcement of the civil rights act. Goldwater voted against the bill and Goldwater expressed doubts about the constitutionality of parts of it.

"He is a constitutionalist," Laird said. "He knows the only way to test the constitutionality of a law is by enforcing it—that's the way our system works."

ITTA BENA, Miss. (UPI) — The FBI Friday arrested three men and charged them with threatening to kill two white youths working in a Negro voter registration drive.

The youths said they were scheduled to address a Negro mass meeting Thursday night. During the afternoon, they said the white men told them "If you speak in Itta Bena tonight, you won't leave town."

The FBI identified the three men as Merritt Ely Randle, 45, James E. Hodges 30, and Lawrence Neal McGraw, 37, all residents of this Mississippi delta area.

They were charged with conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizen from engaging in voter registration activities, and with threatening to assault and kill the two civil rights workers.

The two white youths, both volunteers in the "Mississippi Project," are Roy Bernard Torkington, 24, Berkeley, Calif. and John Lyon Paul, 21, of Ossining, N. Y.

The warrants for the arrest of the three men were signed at Oxford, Miss., shortly before 7 p.m. EDT Friday and within an hour the men had been arrested and were being taken to Oxford for arraignment.

The three men appeared before U.S. Commissioner Omar Craig at Oxford Friday night and requested a preliminary hearing. The hearing was set for Saturday morning and the men were taken to the Lafayette County jail at Oxford.

The FBI said bond was not set, at the request of an attorney representing Randle, Hodges and McGraw.

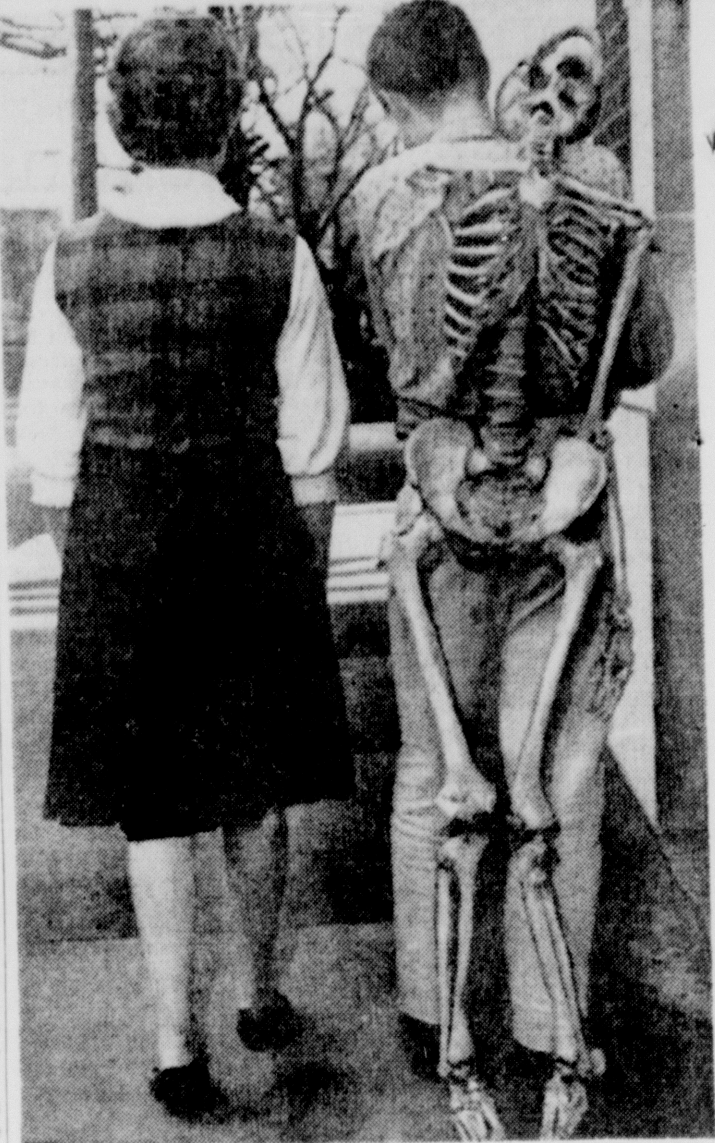

Paul, a student at Hamilton College in Clinton, N. Y., said he and Torkington arrived in Mississippi Sunday after attending an orientation course at Oxford, Ohio. Torkington is a student at the University of California.

Urging King Savang Vannathana to forbid U.S. reconnaissance flights and "bombing and strafing missions" over Red-held areas was seen here Friday as an unprecedented attempt to embroil the monarch in Laos' political turmoil.

The move came in the form of a telegram sent Thursday to the king of Prince Siphonvong, leader of Laos' Communist faction, the Pathet Lao.

It requested the sovereign to issue a royal ordinance forbidding such missions over Communist-held areas by Laotian right-wing T28 fighter planes or by U.S. observation aircraft.

The message also was reported to have urged an early meeting of the three political factions in Laos—the Communists, neutralists and right-wings—and to have called on the king to use his influence toward a 14-nation conference to settle the Laotian crisis.

Texas Wildlifers Study Fish Kill

MISSION, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Friday investigated the deaths of thousands of fish that covered the surface of a private lake near Mission.

Dr. S. V. Dietz of Mission, owner of the half-mile-by-100 yard lake, said he noticed a crop dusting plane making a pass over the lake Wednesday while spraying cotton fields on three sides of the lake.

Dietz did not report the dead fish to the Wildlife Department in Edinburg until Friday. He said the same thing happened June 26, 1963 but this time, twice as many fish were killed.

Klan Leader Gives Views On Lost Trio

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—A Ku Klux Klan leader said here Friday that the National Council of Churches pledged $250,000 to finance the civil rights invasion of Mississippi and that they are in financial difficulty.

Robert M. Shelton Jr., of Tuscaloosa, Ala., the Imperial Wizard of the United Klans of America, said the disappearance of three civil rights workers here was an opportunity to raise needed funds.

"These things follow a pattern," said the 35-year-old salesman.

CHARGE OF 'DEICIDE'

Catholics To Study Anti-Semite Cause

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Last fall the Catholic Ecumenical Council in Rome was asked to right an ancient wrong. Augustin Cardinal Bea, S. J., urged the council to adopt a statement saying that it is unjust and contrary to the Gospel to charge the Jewish people as a whole with "deicide" or to speak of their being "cursed by God" because of the role played by some Jewish leaders of Christ's day in bringing about his crucifixion.

The Bea proposal was hailed by Catholic liberals and by Jews as a powerful blow at one of the historic roots of anti-Semitism. But for some reason, lack of time was the official explanation — it was not placed before the council fathers for a vote at last fall's session.

In recent weeks there have been unofficial but persistent reports from the Vatican that the statement on the Jews has been revised by the commission which is preparing documents for action at this fall's council session. Specifically, these reports say that the commission has deleted any reference to the "deicide" charge, which was the heart of Cardinal Bea's original statement.

The revision is attributed partly to the influence of theological conservatives in the Roman Curia, and partly to diplomatic pressures from Arab nations opposed to any improvement in Jewish-Christian relations.

This week, the liberal U. S. Catholic magazine Commonweal warned in its lead editorial that "it will be little short of a disaster" if the council turns mealy-mouthed on the condemnation of anti-Semitism.

"For centuries millions of Catholics thought of the Jews as 'Christ-killers,'" said Commonweal. "Many still do. Only the most solemn and clear-cut repudiation of this popular/drawn."

Commonweal said that if the council lacks "the courage and will to speak unequivocally" on this matter, "it is hard to see how any Jew could fully credit the church's sincerity" in opposing anti-Semitism.

The reports from Rome have already had a chilling effect on Jewish attitudes toward the council. At last week's meeting of the Central Conference of American Rabbis in Atlantic City, N. J., rabbis from all parts of the United States cheered a speaker who said that Jews must not stoop to lobbying for council action on the Bea statement.

"Such an act of atonement on the part of the church is long overdue and should need no special pleading on our part," said the speaker, Rabbi Leon I. Feuer of Toledo, Ohio.
